Lobbyist Report Bill Gutted, Then Killed

Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Wednesday gutted and then killed Sen. John Cavanaugh's bill to tighten financial reporting by lobbyists.

The key provision in the measure, requiring lobbyists for the first time to report their income from lobbying activities and personal expenses involved in those efforts, was wiped out on a 26-8

"You've killed the bill," Cavanaugh told his colleagues.

"You don't want the public to know the level of (lobbying) activity . . . you have done great injury to the public at large."

The Legislature then formally killed the remaining provisions of the bill on a 20-17 vote, with Cavanaugh not voting. Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly offered the amendment which eliminated the income reporting provisions in the measure, LB261, arguing that no "public purpose" is served by requiring public disclosure of personal income.

The amount of income is not a fair measurement of a lobbyist's ability to influence senators, he said.

But Cavanaugh argued that the public has a right, and a need, to know "how much special interests pay to influence legislation."

Present reporting of lobbyist expenditures for meals, drinks and entertainment for senators is haphazard and "absolutely meaningless," the Omaha senator said.

The public is "entitled to know who's doing what, and how much they're paid to do it," he said.

Lobbyists are "paid to come here and keep us company and make friends with us," Cavanaugh said, and the public should have a means of "measuring that influence" and how much it is worth to a lobbyist's employe.

One reason the bill was opposed, he said, was because it was "damaging to our friendship with the lobbyists.'

Yet, the proposal was "not an antilobbying bill," Cavanaugh declared. "We must have lobbyists."

Lobbying is "a legitimate process," but the public should know the full extent of the process, he contended.

LB261 would have required itemized monthly reports on expenditures for entertainment, food and drink; lodging and travel; personal living expenses and income from lobbying, and a full report on bills and resolutions on which each lobbyist takes a position.

Sen. Jack Mills of Big Springs, who offered the ultimate kill motion, described portions of the bill as 'narassment' techniques.

K St. Plant To Keep Heating

By NANCY HICKS Star Staff Writer

The K St. Power Plant will continue supplying steam heat to its customers regardless of a pending decision by the State Department of Environmental Control, according to Phil Michaels, Lincoln Electric System (LES) manager of power supply.

The plant is seeking an extension of the July 31, 1975, deadline - the time when the K St. plant is to stop using coal as fuel. LES wants to continue burning some coal at the plant for another

The deadline extension decision hinges on a proposed amendment to state air pollution regulations and the plant's ability to comply with overall air quality standards. The decision cannot possibly be reached until mid-July, according to Gene Robinson, of the Department of Environmental

Until a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision gave states authority to grant variances, only the federal government had the power to extend compliance deadlines. LES's request to the federal government for an extension has been handed back to the state, Robinson

However, under current regulations, the state can grant no variances, he said. Robinson has drafted an amendment allowing more latitude for extensions and is hopeful that it will be adopted by the Environmental Control Council at their June 13 meeting. Even if the amendment is adopted and receives the blessing of the governor, LES will still face a public hearing and must show that plant emissions will not endanger the general air quality in central Lincoln. No one is making any public predictions about the hearing outcome, but the K St. plant has in the past year contributed to air pollution levels above the federal minimum standards, according to Dr. Gary L. Walsh, supervisor of the City-County Health Department's air pollution control

A monitor at the County-City Building showed elevated dust levels during 1974 and the first quarter of this year, and aportion of that dust is contributed by the coal-burning power plant, Walsh said.

LES, which will decrease its current 130 steam heat customers by 75%

during the next year, hopes to burn some coal until July 1976. Then the plant will be completely switched to fuel oil, and by mid-May 1977, all steam heat customers will be phased out, Michaels said.

But even without the year's extension, the plant will continue to serve steam heat customers, Michaels said. Because of storage and winter unloading problems (the oil must be heated before it can be unloaded from tankers during cold weather), there could be days of interrupted service, Michaels pointed out.

Other Nebraska companies which have either asked for or are expected to seek compliance deadline extensions include Omaha Public Power District's North Omaha Station, Fremont Utilities, Ideal Cement in Superior, Gooch Mills in Lincoln and Nebraska Public Power District's Sheldon Power Station in Hallam, according to Robinson.

Delays in ordered equipment for dust control at Gooch Mills elevators and the Sheldon Power Plant may mean they will not meet the July 31, deadline, Walsh said. Gooch Mills has already put emission control equipment on three of its four elevators, he said.

Guideline Budget OKd another over-all look at the WASHINGTON (AP) -Congress adopted on Wednesday a guideline budget which called for spending of $367 billion in the year beginning July 1 and calculating the deficit at $68.8 billion — $8.8 billion above the figure President Ford cited as the maximum permissible.

Ford, however, will not have a chance to veto the budget resolution. It is an internal congressional enactment, intended to serve as a directive for the separate money bills to be voted on in the next few months. Congress is not strictly bound by the spending limit, but will take budget after the individual appropriations have been adopted. In the final Senate and House debates, the congressional budget was variously criticized as spendthrift and as insufficently generous with jobmaking and economy-stimulating programs, although it provided more for these and less for defense and foreign aid than Ford's original budget.

The Senate accepted the resolution, a compromise between versions approved earlier by the two chambers, by voice vote. In the House, the vote was 230 to 193.

A monitor at the County-City Building showed elevated dust levels during 1974 and the first quarter of this year, and aportion of that dust is contributed by the coal-burning power plant, Walsh said.

LES, which will decrease its current 130 steam heat customers by 75%

during the next year, hopes to burn some coal until July 1976. Then the plant will be completely switched to fuel oil, and by mid-May 1977, all steam heat customers will be phased out, Michaels said.

But even without the year's extension, the plant will continue to serve steam heat customers, Michaels said.

Because of storage and winter unloading problems (the oil must be heated before it can be unloaded from tankers during cold weather), there could be days of interrupted service, Michaels pointed out.

Other Nebraska companies which have either asked for or are expected to seek compliance deadline extensions include Omaha Public Power District's North Omaha Station, Fremont Utilities, Ideal Cement in Superior, Gooch Mills in Lincoln and Nebraska Public Power District's Sheldon Power Station in Hallam, according to Robinson.

Delays in ordered equipment for dust control at Gooch Mills elevators and the Sheldon Power Plant may mean they will not meet the July 31, deadline, Walsh said.

Gooch Mills has already put emission control equipment on three of its four elevators, he said.

Guideline Budget OKd

WASHINGTON (AP) -Congress adopted on Wednesday a guideline budget which called for spending of $367 billion in the year beginning July 1 and calculating the deficit at $68.8 billion — $8.8 billion above the figure President Ford cited as the maximum permissible.

Ford, however, will not have a chance to veto the budget resolution. It is an internal congressional enactment, intended to serve as a directive for the separate money bills to be voted on in the next few months. Congress is not strictly bound by the spending limit, but will take budget after the individual appropriations have been adopted. In the final Senate and House debates, the congressional budget was variously criticized as spendthrift and as insufficently generous with jobmaking and economy-stimulating programs, although it provided more for these and less for defense and foreign aid than Ford's original The Senate accepted the resolution, a compromise between versions approved earlier by the two chambers, by voice vote. In the House, the vote was 230 to 193.

Giant Land Swindle Uncovered

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - State officials said Wednesday they have uncovered what may be the largest land fraud swindle in the history of the nation, involving thousands of victims and up to $1 billion in lost investments.

Details of the alleged fraud were disclosed on the eve of a strategy meeting between federal, state and local authorities - called by state Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin and Comptroller Gerald Lewis "to coordinate a massive investigation of mortgage fraud allegations."

"This thing is so big and we've got so many overlapping jurisdictions involved that we're just now getting a picture of what's going on," said Lewis. "But the Postal Service thinks it may be the biggest fraud in the history of the coun-

A Postal Service spokesman in Washington confirmed that "we are conducting an open investigation" of the situation working with other agencies. He said he could not confirm the dollar total

The scheme allegedly involves the pyramid-type sale of fake first mortgages on property

Lewis, who is responsible for enforcing Florida's security laws, said the investigation so far involves 56 land developments which allegedly have defrauded between 30.000 and 80.000 people out of $350 million to $1 billion through the sale of unsecured high interest rate corporate

Lewis said investigators have discovered interlocking ownerships in many of the corporations and said some of the principals "have known links with organized crime."

wary speculators from outside of the state than we have ever witnessed," said Shevin. "It is going to demand all of the resources in people power and money that we can muster at all levels of government to bring the worst and most flagrant offenders to justice."

Florida has a history of land fraud dating to the boom of the 1920s but the current investigation differs from past cases "because here, it is investors in these 14-per cent notes being stuck and not the people buying lots," said Lewis.

"It's typical victim is not the wellhealed, sophisticated investor," Lewis "He's the middle-class retiree who stands to lose everything he's worked a lifetime for.

"In that sense it's not just one of the biggest frauds in history, it's also one of the most cynical."

Shevin and Lewis gave the following explanation of the complicated workings of the alleged fraud, which they said surpasses similar schemes uncovered in Arizona.

A land development corporation buys a large tract of land with money borrowed from a bank or, in many cases, an investment group, which in turn is given a first mortgage on the property. Then the developer subdivides the tract and sells lots to individuals for little or nothing down and a small monthly payment.

So far the deal is proper and above board, and the lot buyers are protected as long as they maintain their payments.

But then the developer begins to sell so-called "corporate notes" bearing an interest rate of an attractive 14 per cent, giving the investor a first mortgage on a certain number of lots, depending on the size of the investment, as protection.

Then the developer defaults on the interest payments on the note, and the investor tries to foreclose on the lots only to discover that the first mortgage he thought he held actually was owned by the original lender. "In many cases, these investors have discovered that not only did somebody else hold the first mortgage but nobody even owned the lots they were given as security or that more than one person had been assigned the same lots," Lewis said.

Lewis said the alleged frauds began to surface shortly after the first of the year when the recession hit, forcing many of the developers to default both on their mortgage payments and their payments on the corporate notes.

"All these developments are built on the foundation of a pyramiding progression of sales," said Shevin. "Once sales fell off, they got in trouble because the payments on lots could not meet their cash flow requirements."

Lewis said he could disclose the name of only one firm involved in the investigation, a company against which his office already has won a court order barring further business. All the others are under investigation and cannot be identified, he Equitable Development Corp. of Fort Lauderdale, the developer of Highland Park Estates near Sebring, Fla.. He identified the president of the firm as Bernard Horowitz of Fort Lauderdale.

Lewis said the injunction named the Lewis said investors stood to lose $8 million from Equitable.

Lewis said additional complaints are coming into his office every day and the number of cases now under investigation could double.

"This is a racket that is not simply defrauding investors - it's destroying people," Lewis said.

In Idaho, the biggest producer, farmers are openly hiring illegal aliens to cut costs.

To the consumer who paid up to 15¢ a pound for potatoes in some grocery stores earlier this year and up to 10¢ a pound more recently, it's difficult to believe farmers from Idaho to Maine are going broke at a penny a pound.

But it's happening from coast to coast even though freshmarket prices appear once again to be on the rise, a United Press field labor. Farmers in eastern Idaho illegally paid Mexican nationals in the U.S. up to $800 a month to haul irrigation pipes in the fields.

"If they happened to take those wetbacks away from us, we'd be in serious trouble," said Del Ray Holm of Roberts, Idaho, national potato chairman for the National Farmers Organization. "It isn't the money. You just can't get the others to do the work."

Max Huntsman, director of the Potato Growers of Idaho, said some farmers have gone bankrupt while others are going into crops that do not have the high risk of potatoes.

In eastern Idaho it costs about $840 an acre to produce between 225 and 250 100-pound sacks of potatoes. Simple arithmetic shows a farmer who paid $1 a sack for his produce is losing money at $225 to $250 an acre.

Boise, Idaho (UPI) - The tripled in Suffolk County, N.Y. member of the National Potato Board and National Potato Council, said the fresh-market price has risen to about 4¢ a pound in recent weeks But even that is 1¢ below the break-even point, he said.

> To call attention to their plight, some Idaho farmers gave away 70 tons of spuds in Boise and in Salt Lake City, Utah. Others sold them off trucks in parking lots direct to consumers and they made money. But these and other farm product sales caused the NFO to lose its taxexempt status.

Taking It On The Chin

Holy cow, what an embarrassing week it's been.

With dire implications for contemporary urban civilization, New York City has announced it has gone broke. This seriously could be the worst news of a bad news week.

Elsewhere, things are not much

- - The communists in Cambodia have shown the cheek to pirate an American merchant vessel.

= In response, President Ford has staged about a thousand U.S. Marines in Thailand to show we mean business, but the Thai premier wants them out of the country by this morning. He does not want his nation involved with American troubles and considering geography, it is hard to blame him.

 The Laotians are rioting and stoning the American embassy in Vientiane.

- The Shah of Iran is about ready to step in and save Pan American World Airways from bankruptcy by investing $300 million of his oil money. Iran, it seems, is a rich country which can afford to save American business.

 The Peruvians have expropriated American business property in that country and accused U.S. multinationals of setting a bad moral example by bribing some Latin American government leaders.

The immediate reaction to all or most of this, we suppose, is the natural inclination to cluck about foreign ingratitude and impudence after all we've done for them. And to blame our faltering economy.

But we suggest an appropriate reaction is not to dwell on what we have done FOR people — we should always expect ingratitude; it is as inevitable as death and taxes - but to reflect on what we have done TO people.

Has there not been an arrogant attitude on the part of the American government and American business around the world which would make people take our boats, throw rocks at our embassies and take back properties we claim in their countries?

We're not all bad, certainly; ours is a most admirable record in many respects. But we think the peoples' motives have been better than those of the government's or some of our corporate citizens.

The glum truth is we Americans can expect the flow of events to run against us over the world until such time as traditional American goals and values and actual American policy become more closely related.

LA VERNA HASSLER

What activity there is over the countryside! The farmers are scattered in every field, going in many directions like so many busy ants hurrying about their work . . . around contours, crosswise or up and down their land.

I was caught up in such activity today as I waited for The Farmer to come to the end of the road where he was fertilizing the disked ground. The roar of the tractor grew louder and louder as it approached the end while the gulls cut through the air behind him . . . a silver spray of wings billowing in the sunlight.

Strutting down the open road, crowned with a slender nodding crest, was a Bob White. He was unmindful of me, a mere human, come to sit by the side of his road in midmorning. It was not until he sneaked into the tall grass and underbrush that he called, "Bob White, Bob White, Old Bob White."

Coming toward the roadside ditch was a hen pheasant, neck outstretched, looking almost like a road runner. As she sneaked along, she was barely visible. Her gray-brown mottled plumage blended so well with the earth and gray mile stalks that I would not have noticed her had it not been for her movement. She too hid in the tall grass. 4 4 4

The Farmer zaroomed up to the end, jumped from the tractor and drank his coffee. He ate the roll, frosting and all, scarcely noticing what went into his mouth. Then back to the tractor and zaroom! — he was gone, the big white

Gracious sakes alive, I thought. I best had get back to my garden and get to work. No time to be idle this day. I had a guilty conscience, sitting there watching the world go by.

But, wait. The swirl of dust down the road looks like a small tornado. Zaroom! Nope. Just another farmer in a hurry . . . this time in a pickup truck with bags of seed loaded in the box.

Now, Bob, what have you to say about the good life, the nice quiet peacefulness of the countryside?

No answer. That's ok, Bob. I know. You don't want to incriminate yourself. $\Delta \Delta \Delta$

I have three avocado seeds that I am going to try to root in water. I have been stalling as I didn't know which end of the seed to put in the water. Something told me the broad end of the seed should he suspended in water. Then I thought of a kernel of corn. The roots emerge from the pointed end of the seed.

Last night as I leafed through a flower magazine, I found the directions for rooting an avocado. There was also a color photo of the process. Lucky me. The editors must have had me in mind when they included the picture with the directions.

While I was preparing the seeds, driving toothpicks into the sides, I wondered how the trees are rooted in California. Surely the groves of avocados are begun in a simpler way. What nurseryman would have the time to put toothpicks into every seed and keep the water level constant until they root. If this were true, he would have to be a little seedy himself. At least that is the way I felt as I stuck the toothpicks into my seeds. I was hoping the phone didn't ring until I had finished with the work. Imagine telling some friend on the other end of the wire that I was sticking toothpicks into avocado seeds.

I had come to the conclusion that I would lay the seed flat in a container of dirt in the event I could not find the proper directions for rooting an avocado. Nature always provides a solution and roots always find their way down into the soil, i was prepared to trust nature. She never has let me down, but on second thought there is always the first time.

Now I must wait from two to six weeks for the roots to form. Then I must cut the stem in half when it reaches a length of seven inches. This allows for a bushier potted plant. Then into potting soil. But what am I thinking about? My seeds will probably rot in the water or refuse to root. Right now they look as if they could refuse to cooperate.

Giving Consumers A Voice

The chances for passage of legislation creating an Agency for Consumer Advocacy have not looked brighter since a bill was introduced six years ago. This week the Senate voted to limit debate on the legislation and speedy passage is expected in both the Senate and the House. President Ford has not yet said whether he will veto this measure, although he has spoken out against it.

The question remains, what sort of creature is being put together?

"This will not be a regulatory agency," says Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, the Connecticut Democrat. "It will not be taking care of railroads, or airlines or pipelines or telephone companies. It will be there to speak for the consumer."

Opponents - numbered among them are Curtis and Hruska of Nebraska — are against creating another government agency; they talk about a consumer "czar" running roughshod over other government agencies and business.

President Ford, too, says it will add another layer of costly federal bureaucracy. He says the job of protecting consumers can be better done by reforming existing regulatory agencies. This is a critical point. Perhaps he is right.

the small society

But we know that existing regulatory agencies - either on state or national levels - often do not protect the consumers so much as protect the regulated.

When the President brought up the idea of reforming the regulatory agencies and taking a myriad of restrictions off business so that market forces would come into play and prices and quality would adjust accordingly to the benefit of the consumer, we thought it was both a bad and a good idea. Bad because consumers will still need some protection of the law for their health and safety's sake but good because the federal government has gone way overboard in writing restrictions and

But the fact remains that there is not a federal agency existing today which speaks out for and protects the consumer (leaving the courts out of it). We think there should be and that the Agency for Consumer Advocacy should be created. If regulatory reform can be pushed through - and there is doubt about that — and the consumer would not need the duplicated advocacy function of a separate agency, that extra layer of bureaucracy can be abolished.

A Lawyer's Problems

The Star's Column A article on lawyer-free divorce cases was interesting, but somewhat misinformed. I have done divorce cases for as little as $150 where there was no property, no children and the parting was amicable. This fee may be low, but not out of line if the parties are willing to go to a young attorney just getting started in the profession.

Divorce can be a very simple proceeding, but the wording of the final decree can haunt the parties for years to come. Some of my most difficult problems in family law have involved clients who had previously gone through divorce proceedings without the aid of an attorney.

I object to articles of this nature because people often develop the attitude that any attorney fee is unreasonably high. They forget that the attorney spent three years in law school and often a couple of years starving to death while he developed his practice to a point where he could earn a reasonable living, and then he still gets complaints about high fees from clients where he has tried to keep their bills to a reasonable level. People don't realize the problems attorneys have, such as the high overhead, unbillable time, continuing legal education and the fact that unlike most professionals, he must spend a lot of time outside of the office.

Expression Of Gratitude

Lincoln, Neb. Hospitals are not a place one visits by choice, but if any of Sally Cone's family needs to enter one as a patient, we would want it to be the hospital in which she spent the last two months of her life, St. Elizabeth Community Health Center. She was a lovely and blessed person to her friends and family and it eased our sorrow when she slipped away as gently as she lived, to know that she made friends of most of her attendants in all stations of service at St. E's.

We know in naming some of the folks, we will be missing a few, but the attention and care over and above what was required of them is too exceptional not to be personalized. So, to Pat Plith, Sheila Berry, Deanna Liewar, Lynn Heald, Jo Schapman, Elaine Carter, Lois Stukenholtz, Ruth Zimmerman, Mary Jo Manzitto, Sharon Olmstead, Mary Mideena and resident Dr. Shuey, we give our grateful thanks for making a nearly unbearable time a more bearable one.

We are a Lutheran family, but Mother and each of us had the daily experience of prayer and loving thoughts from Sister Frances Silesia and Sister Barbara Ann, in addition to that of our own pastors. Our words can never express enough gratitude, but they will be in our prayers as we were in theirs.

Taking It On The Chin

Holy cow, what an embarrassing week it's been.

With dire implications for contemporary urban civilization, New York City has announced it has gone broke. This seriously could be the worst news of a bad news week.

Elsewhere, things are not much brighter.

- The communists in Cambodia have shown the cheek to pirate an American merchant vessel.

- In response, President Ford has staged about a thousand U.S. Marines in Thailand to show we mean business, but the Thai premier wants them out of the country by this morning. He does not want his nation involved with American troubles and considering geography, it is hard to

- The Laotians are rioting and stoning the American embassy in Vientiane.

- The Shah of Iran is about ready to step in and save Pan American World Airways from bankruptcy by investing $300 million of his oil money. Iran, it seems, is a rich country which can afford to save American business.

 The Peruvians have expropriated American business property in that country and accused U.S. multinationals of setting a bad moral example by bribing some Latin American government leaders.

The immediate reaction to all or most of this, we suppose, is the natural inclination to cluck about foreign ingratitude and impudence after all we've done for them. And to blame our faltering economy.

But we suggest an appropriate reaction is not to dwell on what we have done FOR people - we should always expect ingratitude; it is as inevitable as death and taxes - but to reflect on what we have done TO people.

Has there not been an arrogant attitude on the part of the American government and American business around the world which would make people take our boats, throw rocks at our embassies and take back properties we claim in their

We're not all bad, certainly; ours is a most admirable record in many respects. But we think the peoples' motives have been better than those of the government's or some of our corporate citizens.

The glum truth is we Americans can expect the flow of events to run against us over the world until such time as traditional American goals and values and actual American policy become more closely related.

What activity there is over the countryside! The farmers are scattered in every field, going in many directions like so many busy ants hurrying about their work . . . around contours, crosswise or up and down their land.

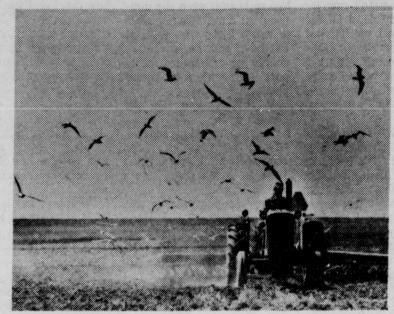

I was caught up in such activity today as I waited for The Farmer to come to the end of the road where he was fertilizing the disked ground. The roar of the tractor grew louder and louder as it approached the end while the gulls cut through the air behind him . . . a silver spray of wings billowing in the sunlight.

Strutting down the open road, crowned with a slender nodding crest, was a Bob White. He was unmindful of me, a mere human, come to sit by the side of his road in midmorning. It was not until he sneaked into the tall grass and underbrush that he called, "Bob White, Bob White, Old Bob White.'

Coming toward the roadside ditch was a hen pheasant, neck outstretched, looking almost like a road runner. As she sneaked along, she was barely visible. Her gray-brown mottled plumage blended so well with the earth and gray milo stalks that I would not have noticed her had it not been for her movement. She too hid in the tall grass.

* * * The Farmer zaroomed up to the end, jumped from the tractor and drank his coffee. He are the roll, frosting and all, scarcely noticing what went into his mouth. Then back to the tractor and zaroom! - he was gone, the big white Gracious sakes alive, I thought. I best had get back to my garden and get to work. No time to be idle this day. I had a guilty conscience, sitting there watching the world go by.

But, wait. The swirl of dust down the road looks like a small tornado. Zaroom! Nope. Just another farmer in a hurry . . . this time in a pickup truck with bags of seed loaded in the box.

Now, Bob, what have you to say about the good life, the nice quiet peacefulness of the countryside?

No answer. That's ok, Bob. I know. You don't want to incriminate yourself.

Something told me the broad end of the seed should be suspended in water. Then I thought of a kernel of corn. The roots emerge from the pointed end of the seed.

Last night as I leafed through a flower magazine, I found the directions for rooting an avocado. There was also a color photo of the process. Lucky me. The editors must have had me in mind when they included the picture with the directions.

While I was preparing the seeds, driving toothpicks into the sides, I wondered how the trees are rooted in California. Surely the groves of avocados are begun in a simpler way. MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The spring has at last turned so beautiful that it seems downright curmudgeonly to talk about the arms race and the fate of mankind in a nuclear war. Aren't the azaleas and the dogwood and the pretty young girls in their summer dresses enough? Why do you have to spoil a fine sunny day?

The answer, I guess, is a conscience that brings me back again and again to the various forms of lunacy embedded in the arms race. In this there is nothing ideological. It is the affront to reason, common sense, that in the end means a drift toward nuclear war at an incalculable cost measured not so much in money as in the irretrievable loss of human and material resources.

In the dispute over the administration's $94 billion defense budget already beginning in Congress, the Pentagon has a potent new argument. Look, they are saying, we must be strong in the eyes of the world after Vietnam and that means any cut in the arms budget will be read as a sign of weakness.

No one would question the need for a strong national defense. But under the "be strong" umbrella are hundreds of millions for new weapons to be piled on top of the nuclear mountain range that already has 2 to 21/2 times overkill for every last blessed human being on this earth. What is more, these weapons are kickers capable of setting off new spurts in the

A notorious example is the strategic cruise missile with a nuclear warhead that has a range of 1,500 miles or more. As late as 1972, the then secretary of defense. Melvin Laird, testified that the submarine-launched cruise missile was necessary to "assure tions for additional U.S. strength, if needed.

Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Elmo Zumwalt said that the deployment of the SLCM "will make possible a more stabilizing atmosphere in countering the Soviet potential strategic cruise missile capability,'

"Long-range cruise missiles," Tsipis concludes, "have the potential to make war more casual and less politically responsible. These missiles increase manyfold the possibility of war as well as its quick transmutation from a conventional tactical encounter to a nuclear confrontation."

In their own defense posture statement, six new Democratic members of the armed services committee call for elimination of the sea-launched cruise missile at a saving of $101 million. Whether an amendment would hold up on the floor of the House is another matter. Members illinformed on the complexities tend to vote with the Pentagon. So, in this 30th year of the nuclear age, the race goes on virtually unimpeded.

Young Lawyer Pleads Case For Reasonable Fees

A Lawyer's Problems

Lincoln, Neb. The Star's Column A article on lawyer-free divorce cases was interesting, but somewhat misinformed. I have done divorce cases for as little as $150 where there was no property, no children and the parting was amicable. This fee may be low, but not out of line if the parties are willing to go to a young attorney just getting started in the profession.

Divorce can be a very simple proceeding, but the wording of the final decree can haunt the parties for years to come. Some of my most difficult problems in family law have involved clients who had previously gone through divorce proceedings without the aid of an attorney.

I object to articles of this nature because people often develop the attitude that any attorney fee is unreasonably high. They forget that the attorney spent three years in law school and often a couple of years starving to death while he developed his practice to a point where he could earn a reasonable living, and then he still gets complaints about high fees from clients where he has tried to keep their bills to a reasonable level. I had the opportunity to have a class of architectural students work on a project involving the Clinton neighborhood and Mr. Scherer and his staff went out of their way to provide us with data, maps, aerial photos, studies, interview results, etc. His open approach in providing assistance to me and the students was certainly welcomed and, in fact, was a pleasant departure from the stereotype bureaucrat who hesitates to provide even his phone number, never mind significant data upon which he is attempting to develop a critical program of ac-

Expression Of Gratitude

Lincoln, Neb. Hospitals are not a place one visits by choice, but if any of Sally Cone's family needs to enter one as a patient, we would want it to be the hospital in which she spent the last two months of her life, St. Elizabeth Community Health Center. She was a lovely and blessed person to her friends and family and it eased our sorrow when she slipped away as gently as she lived, to know that she made friends of most of her attendants in all stations of service at St. E's.

We know in naming some of the folks, we will be missing a few, but the attention and care over and above what was required of them is too exceptional not to be personalized. So, to Pat Plith, Sheila Berry, Deanna Liewar, Lynn Heald, Jo Schapman, Elaine Carter, Lois Stukenholtz, Ruth Zimmerman, Mary Jo Manzitto, Sharon Olmstead, Mary Mideena and resident Dr. Shuey, we give our grateful thanks for making a nearly unbearable time a more bearable one.

We are a Lutheran family, but Mother and each of us had the daily experience of prayer and loving thoughts from Sister Frances Silesia and Sister Barbara Ann, in addition to that of our own pastors. Our words can never express enough gratitude, but they will be in our prayers as we were in theirs.

Funding Added For Two NU Building Projects

Star Staff Writer

In a flurry of last-minute budget activity, the Legislature Wednesday added two new major projects to its capital construction appropriations

A $232,000 appropriation would prepare working drawings for a new $13.5 million plant sciences complex at the University of Nebraska's East Campus in Lincoln.

A $100,000 appropriation would draw plans for the construction of a downtown education center for the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Although no price tag was listed in Wednesday's amendment, the UNO center has been estimated to cost $10 million, one-half of which would be financed with private donations.

Those two projects, added to LB609 and LB611, would provide each of the university's campuses with one major new building. Out-Patient Facility

Already approved is funding for an $8.1 million out-patient facility at the Medical Center in Omaha.

Sen. James Dickinson of Millard won 25-17 approval for the plant sciences complex. All six Lancaster County senators voted no in view of the lack of an approved program statement outlining the proposal.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha gained 25-13

approval for the $100,000 UNO appropriation. which replaces a $10,000 funding recommendation to prepare a program statement on the proposal.

Mahoney's amendment tends to boost the Legislature's request for a proposal to a commitment to build the structure.

Fort Renovation

Also added to LB611 was a $300,000 appropriation to renovate Fort Omaha for use by the Metropolitan Technical Community College. That proposal, offered by Sen. Tom Fitzgerald of Omaha, was accepted on a 27-0 vote. Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood succeeded in adding another $74,085 to agricultural programs in the university's operational budget.

That amendment attached to LB610, was adopted on a 27-5 vote.

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha made an initial effort to slice in half the $200,000 state tax support for operation of the university's new fieldhouse in Lincoln.

But he revised that proposal to merely ask the Legislature to write into LB610 a proviso that senators will not consider adding to the $200,000 with a deficit appropriation next year.

The revised amendment fell on a 12-24 vote. Basketball Season

Also turned aside was a sixth proposal to increase funding for the women's athletic program at UNO.

The three NU projects now contained in the capital construction budget bills are the only three major buildings authorized for new funding in fiscal 1975-76.

work on the eight general appropriations bills, all of which Speaker Jules Burbach hopes to submit to final reading on Friday.

Any budget bills not enacted this week may not be returned by the governor in time for senators to attempt to override his item veto reductions.

The Lincoln Star Thursday, May 15, 1975 Funding Added For Two NU Building Projects

By DON WALTON Star Staff Writer

In a flurry of last-minute budget activity, the Legislature Wednesday added two new major projects to its capital construction appropriations

A $232,000 appropriation would prepare working drawings for a new $13.5 million plant sciences complex at the University of Nebraska's East Campus in Lincoln.

A $100,000 appropriation would draw plans for the construction of a downtown education center for the University of Nebraska at Omaha. Although no price tag was listed in Wednesday's amendment, the UNO center has been estimated to cost $10 million, one-half of which would be financed with private donations.

Those two projects, added to LB609 and LB611, would provide each of the university's campuses with one major new building.

Out-Patient Facility Already approved is funding for an $8.1 million out-patient facility at the Medical Center in Omaha.

Sen. James Dickinson of Millard won 25-17 approval for the plant sciences complex. All six Lancaster County senators voted no in view of the lack of an approved program statement outlining approval for the $100,000 UNO appropriation, which replaces a $10,000 funding recommendation to prepare a program statement on the

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha gained 25-13

Mahoney's amendment tends to boost the Legislature's request for a proposal to a commitment to build the structure.

Fort Renovation

Also added to LB611 was a $300,000 appropriation to renovate Fort Omaha for use by the Metropolitan Technical Community College. That proposal, offered by Sen. Tom Fitzgerald of Omaha, was accepted on a 27-0 vote. Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood succeeded in adding another $74,085 to agricultural programs in the university's operational budget.

That amendment attached to LB610, was adopted on a 27-5 vote.

Sen. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha made an initial effort to slice in half the $200,000 state tax support for operation of the university's new fieldhouse in Lincoln.

But he revised that proposal to merely ask the Legislature to write into LB610 a proviso that senators will not consider adding to the $200,000 with a deficit appropriation next year.

The revised amendment fell on a 12-24 vote. Basketball Season

Sen. Harold Simpson warned that the $200,-000 will be needed if the fieldhouse is to operate as the university's home basketball court next tournament.

"We would look awfully silly to have an empty fieldhouse locked up," Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney said.

Lawmakers turned down two efforts to commit the state to the purchase of $675,000 in Sarpy County land for agricultural education purposes, and a bid to wipe out most of the proposed developments on Papio Creek.

Also turned aside was a sixth proposal to increase funding for the women's athletic program

The three NU projects now contained in the capital construction budget bills are the only three major buildings authorized for new funding in fiscal 1975-76.

Gov. J. James Exon recommended construction funding only for the out-patient facility during the coming year.

Chambers Fails In Try For Statutory PSC Code

The Legislature rejected a move Wednesday by Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers to impose what amounted to a statutory code of ethics on the Public Service Commission.

Senators declined to recall LB311 to the second floor stage to add a Chambers amendment that would have prohibited certain conduct by commissioners, whose job it is to regulate telephone companies and common carriers.

Commissioners recently adopted a code of ethics after it was learned that some commissioners had accepted favors, including fishing trips and football tickets, from some utility companies.

Omaha Sen. Harold Moylan had argued against the Chambers amendment in the past, contending that existing statutes sufficiently outline unacceptable conduct by commissioners.

San Diego - Getting hooked on LSD can do you a world of good, says a prominent California psychiatrist. Only in this case LSD is not the wellknown halluctuatory drug, it is the running cult's acronym for "long, slow, distance running."

While many doctors are prescribing it for preventive or rehabilitative health, Dr. Thaddeus Kostrubala uses LSD as mental treatment. After a time, it's addictive, he says. Patients are able to substitute a running addiction for antisocial drug or alcohol addictions. A manic depressive or a schizophrenic can literally run away from mental

When the 79-lb. girl began the running-group therapy program, she had never experienced menstruation. Now, she has gained 56 pounds and has had menstrual periods. A young man hospitalized for schizophrenia started running with the group and shed all his clinical characteristics. Now, he is attending college and working without medication.

This didn't go down well with the Honolulu papers who said 10 Army-chauffeured limousines for 27 secretaries, barbers and what-not was an awful lot.

A Honolulu lady out on Beretania Street said to a reporter: "If Lon Nol can have that many limousines, why does the supermarket complain if I roll home one of their shopping carts?'

The seeming inequity was cleared up by Long Botta, minister of culture. (What a name and what a title!)

He said they gave Lon Nol one million dollars to get out.

"I would just have given him a quarter of a million dollars," said Long Botta who apparently has looked into the market price of ex-presidents. After the million dollar figure came out, no journalist dares question Lon Nol's right to a cenvoy of Army limousines and drivers.

Not being a million dollar expresident, we are moving in carton boxes supplied by the grocery store. I don't like to be re-potted. But it's a grand way to unload things you felt you couldn't do without.

Most people would rather buy goods and services or invest the money left over after essentials have been paid for. Since last October, the number who say they are inclined to buy more products and services has approximately doubled.

A decisive, 47-29% plurality now feels a depression is unlikely a year from now compared to the 38-33% plurality who believed last December a depression would occur in a year. A 52-28% majority thinks the country will still be in recession next year, but a greater titude about prices:

Chapin Won't Contest April, 1974..... Airport Panel Election

his re-election bid for the Lincoln Airport Authority, won't contest the outcome despite the discovery that the election was unconstitutional.

A 1972 state law changed the election dates of airport authority member. Under the law, a member elected in 1969 would serve until 1976. Therefore, Chapin and incumbent Richard Jovce, both elected in '69, should not have been up for re-election this year.

Chapin was unseated last week by Don Geis. Joyce was reelected.

Chapin said, "As far as I'm concerned the election has been held and the voters have spoken.'

Chapin said he was advised by the Airport Authority attorney Chauncey Barney about the situation. The state law "is really fouled up," Chapin said.

Even though he lost out in the race, Chapin said he isn't apologetic about the campaign. Chapin said he believed he was the only one who could challenge the election but he 'absolutely" would not. The matter came to light when Geis' attorney contacted Barney to see what procedures were necessary for Geis to take office.

Barney said he reviewed the 1972 law and realized that the changes in the law had not been brought to anybody's attention. Lancaster County Election

Foreign Trade Loss Massive For British

LONDON (AP) -Britain announced Wednesday a massive loss of $664.7 million in its overseas trade for April, but the deficit was not as bad as had been feared in London's financial community.

The April deficit was more than twice as high as Britain's foreign trade loss for March, but well below the billion dollar a month average trade deficit earlier in the year.

The government warned that both the March and April trade figures had been distorted by the presidents have. Ex-presidents, I gather, have to be brought to normal life like scuba divers. Bring them up too fast, they get the bends.

This didn't go down well with the Honolulu papers who said 10 Army-chauffeured limousines for 27 secretaries, barbers and what-not was an awful lot.

A Honolulu lady out on Beretania Street said to a reporter: "If Lon Nol can have that many limousines, why does the supermarket complain if I roll home one of their shopping

The seeming inequity was cleared up by Long Botta, minister of culture. (What a name and what a title!)

He said they gave Lon Nol one million dollars to get out.

"I would just have given him a quarter of a million dollars," said Long Botta who apparently has looked into the market price of ex-presidents. After the million dollar figure came out, no journalist dares question Lon Nol's right to a convoy of Army limousines and drivers.

County's $$: Nearly 95% Said Invested

Nearly 95% of the county's funds are invested in interest earning accounts throughout the county, according to a monthly report by County Treasurer Frank Golden.

A report to the County Board showed the treasurer's office has funds invested in 18 county banks and has checking accounts in two banks.

There is $12,058,928 on investment and $609,037 in checking accounts, the latter for day-today operating expenses, the report showed.

Last month Golden reported that 97% of the county's money was invested. The high investment rate followed criticism from the County Board and the State Auditor's Office on Golden's investment practice.

The county earned $482,000 on investments during the last fiscal year and Golden expects that this year's earnings will exceed that figure.

The two banks with the largest investments and the banks used for checking accounts are First National and the National Bank of Commerce.

In addition to the monthly report the County Board has asked Golden for a review of interest rates paid by county banks.

Sandra Pomajzl

She Wants ADC For Unborn Child

Star Staff Writer

Sandra Pomajzl may cause a few raised eyebrows. She's a young woman, liberal in outlook, free in lifestyle, and not about to be swallowed up in the morass of bureaucratic rules and red tape.

When the Welfare Department cut off her Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) payments under a new policy which denied benefits to the unborn child, Ms. Pomajzl, pregnant and unmarried, stormed off to talk with State Welfare Department officials and the lieutenant governor.

"I was mad. I'm not one for givin' up without a fight," said Ms. Pomajzl, who has filed a class action suit against the State Welfare Department, seeking reinstatement of ADC benefits for herself and other women in similar circumstances.

Unable to get a full time job because of her pregnancy, Ms. Pomajzl had counted on the ADC money, plus some part time babysitting earnings to see her through the pregnancy.

The Way It Was Handled

It wasn't just the loss of welfare benefits which angered her, it was the way the affair was handled.

Women who would be affected by the change in ruling were not notified of the hearing where the State Welfare Department decided to drop aid to unborn children. "We didn't know we were in jeopardy," said Ms. Pomajzl.

The hearing date was listed in public notice advertisements in the local newspapers, "but I'm not in the contracting business, so I don't read public notices very often," said Ms. Pomajzl.

The notices to individual recipients, telling women that the benefits would stop as of May 1, were not mailed until the end of April, giving the women little time to ask for a hearing on their individual ADC status, she explained.

This is not the first time the 24-year-old Ms. Pomajzl has taken on the system. When others told her, "No one ever beats a landlord in court," Ms. Pomaizl took her landlord into small claims court. She had refused to pay rent because of conditions in her apartment.

She won the case and did not have to pay the back rent, but she was evicted from the apartment.

Even Ms. Pomajzl's lifestyle and philosophy are a defiance of the traditional values which say that expectant mothers should get married, that children can only be raised within a marriage.

"It's really funny, but most people are more concerned about the moral aspect than about the (child's) welfare," said Ms. Pomajzl. "Why have a baby if you're not going to get married?" they ask her. Ms. Pomajzl doesn't want to get married, but she does want to have children.

Will Keep Half-White Baby

She plans to keep her baby, which will be half

She also has a daughter, now almost three. "After the first baby, I tried to better myself; I worked and went to school. It was too much." She finally relinquished that child for adoption by her parents.

This time it will be different, she says. "I plan to stay home for a while with this baby."

A third or fourth generation American, Ms. Pomajzl said she was raised in the old-fashioned, traditional way, "but I've always had liberal ideas for some reason.

"I was always for the underdog." And even in high school social studies class, she questioned America's treatment of minorities.

Found Out For Herself

When she came to Lincoln from a small Nebraska town to attend college, she decided to find out for herself if other races were so much different from white people.

Since then she has lived her own life, held various jobs from factory to office work, and started receiving welfare benefits when she first found out she was pregnant in December.

Though she plans to take advantage of welfare help for a while after the baby is born, she doesn't plan on making it a life-time habit.

"I don't like it either - to go on welfare. But I've worked and paid my taxes. And if I don't take some help, I'll just get deeper in debt," she said.

A bill granting welfare benefits to unborn children has passed the Unicameral and, if it receives the governor's signature, Ms. Pomajzl will again receive her $175 per month in ADC benefits.

She sees her suit, which alleges that the state failed to technically comply with the law by neglecting to file copies of the new policy with the proper state agencies, as an interim measure - a measure which will help her and other pregnant women if the state fails to endorse the unborn benefit policy.

Drive Unleashed By Police Against Bothersome Dogs

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Chicago - The might of the Chicago Police Department is being unleashed in a crackdown on bothersome dogs.

Police have been directed to step up enforcement of ordinances controlling dogs and other pets, especially in Chicago parks.

Supt. James M. Rochford's order, read at police roll calls last week, pointed specifically to these two common offenses:

-Allowing a dog to run at large.

-Permitting a dog to "commit a nuisance" on park property, other than a public roadway.

Policemen issuing citations to owners of animals committing such offenses were instructed to report the action to the Park District so it can follow up on prosecution. Fines for violations range from $25 to $200.

South was a fine psychologist in this deal. West led the king of spades and declarer realized that if West had the king of diamonds the contract was icecold, as he would be able to score eleven tricks with the aid of a diarnond finesse.

But South was extremely concerned by the possibility of East having the king of diamonds. In that case, the contract was in serious danger.

The first problem was whether or not to win the king of spades. Declarer knew that if he took the ace and tried a diamond finesse, he would go down if the finesse lost and East returned a spade.

South also knew that if he played low on the spade lead, West would almost surely shift to a heart and the contract again would collapse if East had the king of diamonds.

Faced with these dire possibilities, South came up with the brilliant idea of playing the jack of spides on the king! West naturally continued with the queen after this play. He thought that declarer had the A-J alone, which was exactly what Tove Jansson, in writing "The Summer Book" (Pantheon), has done something few authors can do.

She has conceived a story potentially fraught with the perils of sentimentality, and turned it into a tough, gritty tale that literally sings of her talent.

'The Summer Book" could have been so cliched, so sweet, so plastic: The story of a little girl and her grandmother sharing their summer experiences on an island in the Gulf of Finland.

But Ms. Jansson — a Finnish author best known for her children's stories - has magical-

True, her 80-plus years have taught her the use of a walking stick. But time and again she abandons it, choosing instead to explore forest and cave on hands and knees; searching for treasures - rocks, and bones and scraps of wood for carving.

Ms. Jansson makes no excuses for the character she creates. Grandmother is simply Grandmother.

Loses Balance

Once in awhile she loses her balance and "sits down" on one of the house plants. "But most of these straightened up again."

And Grandmother makes no excuses for herself. She hates the lavendar parasol her son insists she carry during daytime outings. But she carries it anyway.

Conventional attitudes are discarded at will when they get in Grandmother's way. She's not above calling her granddaughter a "bloody nitwit" when they disagree.

Now and then she shocks the youngster with outrageous pronouncements: God "would never do anything so dumb as make a Hell.' Grandmother argues during one particularly heated discussion.

Ignore Signs

She teaches her granddaughter that "No Trespassing" signs on people's property are to be ignored: "No well-bred person goes ashore on someone else's island when there's no one home. But if they put up a sign, then you do it anyway, because it's a slap in the face.'

Ms. Jansson demonstrates a superb ability at character development in "The Summer Book." Although she is dealing with the atypical, she weaves the character of the grandmother together so tightly and with so little effort that the unusual becomes usual.

In addition, the author's ability to convey a sense of place, a sense of being, makes "The Summer Book" a book to remember.

Blackbird 'Feels Clean' After Splashing, Shaking

Today's "Write On" contributor is a Lincoln housewife. She says she spends her time gardening ("our garden is big enough to keep us supplied all winter") and writing ("I've had some things published in religious magazines). She has three sons; one is married and the other two are going to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

By JUNE TITUS This morning I watched a blackbird at the bird bath.

First, he daintily perched on the rim and drank, arching his head way back for each swallow. His thirst slaked, he stepped into the water and sipped a couple more times.

Then the fun began as he dipped first one wing and then the other in the water and splashed and shook and splashed and shook again. Then, seemingly satisfied, he flew to the nearby fence where I could almost imagine him saying to his waiting mate (In the words of current down, the little birds left for ornithologist or Audubon Society commercial) "I feel clean! I feel

With spring upon us and summer to follow I would heartily recommend some backyard bird watching whether you're an expert in bird identification or not. I'm not. I could not differentiate between the various sparrows that flocked around our bird feeder all winter, although I was aware that some seemed differently marked than others.

I enjoyed watching their antics as they flew from the branches of the spruce to the feeder and then to the ground where they picked away at the scattered seed. I do know the whitebreasted little bird with the black head, back and wings was not a sparrow, but probably a junco as two of them companionably joined the sparrows beneath the feeder.

When the bossy blue jays flew awhile as they also did when the noisy starlings decided to feed. The beautiful cardinals also seemed to prefer a private meal, although they were not so insis-

A log with suet stuffed in the holes attracted a pair of downy woodpeckers two or more times a day. (We identified them with the help of our bird book.) This bevy of bird visitors daily made the outdoor winter scene more interesting.

Now the robins are back! (I know a robin!) And I'm sure I've heard the mourning dove. Soon, I hope, will come the brown thrasher and the Baltimore oriole, and wee house wrens. Perhaps the catbirds and phoebes will return. And I hope the goldfinch who kept house in a neighbor's tree will return. returned. Most assuredly my father's barn swallows will be back.

You really don't have to be an member to enjoy our fine feathered friends, although I admire and envy their knowledge and expertise.

But you do need some trees and shrubs and perhaps a bird bath to attract some of the birds. So, down with harmful sprays and watch your cats and let's enjoy the birds and keep them around. OK?

Selskaya Zhizn frequently publishes diatribes against the church, apparently because of the strong survival of religious belief in rural areas.

The newspaper said it sent a reporter to the Volga River town of Kamishino after receiving a letter from the boy, Viktor Feodorov, complaining that his father threatened to kick him out of the house and that teachers mocked him as "the holy man" because he wanted to become a priest.

The paper said it was easy to sympathize with the boy's father who cannot understand where his son got his priest's spirit. In the family, no one believes in God. No one goes to church. Viktor's younger brothers and sisters go in for sports - while Viktor studies old Slavonic and reads the Bible.

The newspaper said an interest in old icons - of which several were hanging in his house — together with a sense of being neglected by friends and teachers led to Viktor's conver-

Corrections Panel Request Added To Multi-Year Plan

Star Staff Writer

A city-county department of corrections took a small step toward implementation Wednesday.

Creation of the department and other changes in the handling of people after arrest were recommended in a jail study report released last week. The first step toward implementation came when the Region II Crime Commission decided to include key recommendations of the report in a planning document called the Multi-year Comprehensive

The plan forecasts that more than $1.3 million in federal funds may be sought to implement the report's recommendations.

The Comprehensive Plan goes to the State Crime Commission, serving notice to that body. which has the final authority to deny or approve requests for federal crime money, on what sort of requests it can expect in the coming years.

Including the funding requests in the plan paves the way for actual requests for the money, although the plan itself is merely estimates on what implementation of the report will cost. The biggest category in the $1.3 million was for staffing and remodeling of the jail. That amount was set at $749,000.

Next was the category for pretrial diversion programs, already being set up by the Lancaster County attorney's office with federal money. That amount was set at $448,000.

The next category was establishment of a drug treatment program, including a residential treatment facility, at a cost of about $135,000.

Those categories deal with some of the major recommendations of the report, which calls for turning the present jail into a intake and screening facility and establishing a medium-security facility in another location, preferably an existing one.

In other action Wednesday the commission approved and forwarded to the State Crime Commission requests for more than $160,000 in federal funds.

The largest grant approved was from the Youth Service System, which is seeking $114,-989, to continue operation of two group homes for troubled

The homes were established last year and began operating in October. Since then, 18 youths have been in the homes, with eight still present.

Of the four girls who have left one group home, one went home, one went to a foster home and two went to the Regional Center.

Of the six boys who have left the other group home, two went home, one went to a foster home and three went to the Kearney Youth Redevelopment Center.

The next largest request was for $44,268 to continue a program of recruiting parents for foster homes.

Last year 11 foster homes were approved because of the recruitment program and six more will soon be approved, according to Marilyn Beggs, juvenile probation officer.

Clerk of the District Court Kandra Hahn asked for $1,580 to reimburse her for a trip to New York City for a workshop on modern procedures and to send her chief deputy to Aspen, Colo., for a workshop on the computerization of records. The

Boos, Hisses Not Really So Bad

Theatre Inc. of Lincoln opened its 13th season of Mellerdrammers at The Gas Light Theatre Wednesday night to a chorus of boos, hisses and catcalls.

But the actors didn't seem to mind. There were an equal number of cheers, whistles and bravos. And, when the last villam had slithered off stage leaving the fair damsel in the arms of her hero, the audience forgot its prejudices and accorded both the good and the evil a well-deserved round of applause.

"It's just a lot of fun. You can just go out and have a good time," said Jim Steenson who, when he isn't dodging the popcorn barrages that always greet his entrance as J Tamarack Gargle, master villain, admits plans for a professional career. The "just a lot of fun" attitude

The lead show, "True Blue and Trusted," features a sniveling, sand-paper voiced villian - J. Tamarack Gargle (Steenson); a wide-eyed, handwringing damsel - Lily Lackamoney (Jo Rogge); and a hero — Balderdash Trustworthy (Scott Boughn) — with spotless overalls and an affinity for dogooding.

Some well-polished acting with just enough exaggeration to bring showers of popcorn or shouts of encouragement from the audience — is provided by Amy Cunningham (Maxine Burning Rug Mascara), Marie Muffley (Grandmamma) and Bill Oakley (Col. Beauregard).

Causes Damage "You can be a real ham out To Lincoln Home

Fire damaged a house early Wednesday morning when a rug thrown over a floor furnace outlet caught fire, spreading flames to the surrounding floor, firemen said.

The house, owned by James L. Jurgens, of 2414 N. 57th, suffered considerable damage.

Firemen said Jurgens' wife, Velma, woke up in time to get their two children out of the nouse. Jurgens was at work.

Mrs. Jurgens told firemen she thought the furnace had been shut off. The furnace went on during the night, igniting the rug which blocked a heat outlet, firemen said.

Corrections Panel Request Added To Multi-Year Plan

Star Staff Writer

A city-county department of corrections took a small step toward implementation Wednesday.

Creation of the department and other changes in the handling of people after arrest were recommended in a jail study report released last week.

The first step toward implementation came when the Region II Crime Commission decided to include key recommendations of the report in a planning document called the Multi-year Comprehensive

The plan forecasts that more than $1.3 million in federal funds may be sought to implement the report's recommendations.

The Comprehensive Plan goes to the State Crime Commission, serving notice to that body, which has the final authority to deny or approve requests for federal crime money, on what sort of requests it can expect in the coming years.

Including the funding requests in the plan paves the way for actual requests for the money, although the plan itself is merely a forecast

The plan also contains the first estimates on what implementation of the report will cost.

preferably an existing one.

The biggest category in the $1.3 million was for staffing and remodeling of the jail. That amount was set at $749,000.

Next was the category for pretrial diversion programs, already being set up by the Lancaster County attorney's office with federal money. That amount was set at $448,000.

The next category was establishment of a drug treatment program, including a residential treatment facility, at a cost of about $135,000.

But the actors didn't seem to mind. There were an equal number of cheers, whistles and bravos. And, when the last villain had slithered off stage leaving the fair damsel in the arms of her hero, the audience forgot its prejudices and accorded both the good and the evil a well-deserved round of applause.

'It's just a lot of fun. You can just go out and have a good time," said Jim Steenson who, when he isn't dodging the popcorn barrages that always greet his entrance as J. Tamarack Gargle, master villain, admits plans for a professional career. The "just a lot of fun" attitude

The lead show, "True Blue and Trusted," features a sniveling, sand-paper voiced villian - J. Tamarack Gargle (Steenson); a wide-eyed, handwringing damsel - Lily Lackamoney (Jo Rogge); and a hero — Balderdash Trustworthy (Scott Boughn) — with spotless overalls and an affinity for do-

Burning Rug Causes Damage To Lincoln Home

Fire damaged a house early Wednesday morning when a rug thrown over a floor furnace outlet caught fire, spreading flames to the surrounding floor, firemen said.

The house, owned by James L. Jurgens, of 2414 N. 57th, suffered considerable damage.

Firemen said Jurgens' wife, Velma, woke up in time to get their two children out of the house. Jurgens was at work.

Mrs. Jurgens told firemen she thought the furnace had been shut off. The furnace went on during the night, igniting the rug which blocked a heat outlet, firemen said.

health insurance

According to a study by Public Citizen, a Ralph Nader-affiliated organization, there are at least 100,000 excess hospital beds in the country, which cost $5 billion to build and $2 billion a year to maintain These costs are passed on to you

The American Hospital Assn. challenges the Public Citizen figures. For example, they say that since hospitals are running at around the same capacity rate (76%) as manufacturing concerns, everything is okay. But manufacturing concerns are grievously below optimum levels of operation By this analogy, hospitals are, too

Obviously, the best way to avoid paying for this surplus is to do as little business with hospitals as possible. Here are some of the ways you can cut the cost of an illness (assuming that your hospital and doctor will cooperate)

hospital for elective surgery This saves a day or two of waiting at expensive hospital rates Unfortunately, not very many hospitals encourage preadmissions testing According to a government report, this procedure is very popular with institutions that have a lot of empty beds to be paid for If you have to go into the hospital for the tests, try to avoid Friday admissions Not much will be done over the weekend

(2) Get a second opinion before accepting surgery Since the business of a "cutter" (as surgeons sometimes call themselves) is to cut they're sometimes slow to consider alternate solutions When the Storeworkers Union in New York City made a second consultation compulsory before hospital bills would be paid, 20% of the proposed operations were dropped When you go for a second opinion, make sure the surgeon knows what you're doing His judgment might be more impartial if he knows that, whatever he advises, he probably won't get the business

(3) Ask the doctor ahead of time how long your hospital stay should be and whether there's a less expensive facility where you could recuperate Sometimes patients stay an extra day because a busy doctor hasn t had time to check all the records or plan ahead as to what kind of home care might be provided Former Health Education and Welfare Department Secretary Caspar Weinberger once said that according to studies he had seen, "the length of a patient s stay in a hospital seems to be strongly related to the availability of beds,' rather than the progress of his illness

(4) Check your health insurance to see how generous it is in paying for out-of-hospital health care such as visiting nurses prescription drugs longterm care facilitites physical therapy and renting hospitaltype equipment for use at home (c) 1975. The Washington Post Company

11-Month High Hit By Stocks

NEW YORK (AP) -The stock market, hesitating only briefly over the U.S. sinking of three Cambodian patrol boats, jumped to a new 11-month high Wednesday in the heaviest trading in nearly four weeks. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 8 60 to 858.73, its highest close since it finished at 859 67 last June 10.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, up 69 at 92 27, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index, 38 higher at 48 83, also touched new highs for the rally that began some five months ago. The market clmbed steadily during the morning, lifting the Dow about 7 points, until word reached Wall Street just before noon that U.S Air Force planes had destroyed three Cambodian patrol boats and damaged four The Pentagon said the action was taken to prevent the removal of crew members from the captured US cargo ship Mayaguez to the Cambodian mainland The Dow dropped to a plus-2 reading in short order after that, but then steadied and was climbing again early in the after-Brokers said it appeared buying generally had been encouraged by the market's resistance to decline since the seizing of the Mayaguez on Monday AT&T common slipped 1/8 to 517s, holding steady at that price throughout the session on turnover of 15 million shares.

Rainbo Reveals Plans To Buy Wendelin Plant

Rambo Bread Co of Grand Island plans to renovate, do some baking and operate its Lincoln routes out of the Wendelin bakery at 1430 South St if it gets approval to buy the real estate and equipment Rambo has asked the Federal Trade Commission for approval, and word should come sometime after June 6, according to W H. Miller, Rainbo president Rainbo is a subsidiary of Campbell

Taggart Inc The bakery has been closed about two months since its routes and inventory were sold by Food Host USA to Metz Baking Co of Sioux City Food Host is currently in Chapter XI

bankruptcy proceedings Metz currently operates a thrift store for baked goods at the Wendelin site Miller said no plans have been made for the store

Rainbo plans to close its warehouse at 2030 Cornhusker Highway and employ 15-20 persons at the bakery, Miller said The application to the FTC says the Rambo Co plans to pay $227 500 for the Wendelin premises and equipment. Gold Futures

Overuse Of Hospitals Adds To 11 S Hoold C To U.S. Health Care Costs

By JANE BRYANT QUINN New York - One of the most common reasons for a painfully accumulated nest egg to be wiped out is a sudden and serious illness in the family. Although the majority of working people are covered by group health insurance, it rarely reimburses you for every nickel spent. Nor do individual health

But typically, they pay more if your case is handled at great cost in a hospital than if a nurse or doctor attends you at home. This payment system has helped contribute to the overuse of expensive hospitals, too much hospital construction in many parts of the country, and blinding increases both in the price of hospital care and the price of health insurance.

According to a study by Public Citizen, a Ralph Nader-affiliated organization, there are at least 100,000 excess hospital beds in the country, which cost $5 billion to build and $2 billion a year to maintain. These costs are passed on to you.

The American Hospital Assn. challenges the Public Citizen figures. For example, they say that since hospitals are running at around the same capacity rate (76%) as manufacturing concerns, everything is okay. But manufacturing concerns are grievously below optimum levels of operation. By this analogy, hospitals are, too.

Obviously, the best way to avoid paying for this surplus is to do as little business with hospitals as possible. Here are some of the ways you can cut the cost of an illness (assuming that your hospital and doctor will cooperate):

This saves a day or two of waiting at expensive hospital rates. Unfortunately, not very many hospitals encourage preadmissions testing. According to a government report, this procedure is very popular with institutions that have a lot of empty beds to be paid for. If you have to go into the hospital for the tests, try to avoid Friday admissions: Not much will be done over the weekend. (2) Get a second opinion before accepting surgery. Since the business of a "cutter" (as surgeons sometimes call themselves) is to cut. they're sometimes slow to consider alternate solutions. When the Storeworkers Union in New York City made a second consultation compulsory before hospital bills would be paid, 20% of the proposed operations were dropped.

When you go for a second opinion, make sure the surgeon knows what you're doing. His judgment might be more impartial if he knows that, whatever he advises, he probably won't get the business.

(3) Ask the doctor ahead of time how long your hospital stay should be, and whether there's a less expensive facility where you could recuperate. Sometimes patients stay an extra day because a busy doctor hasn't had time to check all the records, or plan ahead as to what kind of home care might be provided. Former Health Education and Welfare Department Secretary Caspar Weinberger once said that, according to studies he had seen, "the length of a patient's stay in a hospital seems to be strongly related to the availability of beds," rather than the progress of his illness.

Rainbo Bread Co. of Grand Island plans to renovate, do some baking and operate its Lincoln routes out of the Wendelin bakery at 1430 South St. if it gets approval to buy the real estate and equipment.

Rainbo has asked the Federal Trade Commission for approval, and word should come sometime after June 6, according to W.H. Miller, Rainbo president. Rainbo is a subsidiary of Campbell

Taggart Inc. about two months since its routes and inventory were sold by Food Host USA to Metz Baking Co. of Sioux City. Food Host is currently in Chapter XI bankruptcy proceedings. Metz currently operates a thrift store for baked goods at the Wendelin site. Miller said no plans have been made for the store. Rainbo plans to close its warehouse at 2030 Cornhusker Highway and employ 15-20 persons at the bakery, Miller said. The application to the FTC says the Rainbo Co. plans to pay $227,500 for the Wendelin premises and equipment. Gold Futures

Soybean Prices

Close Higher Chicago (AP) - Soybean the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday although gains were Soybean oil and meal prices were mostly higher, too.

Some sources linked the bean price movement to short covering as a result of uneasiness over the U.S. sinking of Cambodian gunboats near the captured American merchant ship.

trimmed near the close.

Soybean prices had been mostly lower until news of the incident in Southeast Asia and then, after a delay of some minutes, bean prices spurted forward.

For technical reasons, the activity in Southeast Asia appeared to have little or no impact on trading of grains, which were lower throughout the day and closed mostly a cent or two lower.

Trading in the gold pit, however, was spurred by the news from Cambodia and prices advanced $3 to $4.

"I made up my mind when I was sitting on the bench, those guys were looking for me to help," Barry said in praise of his Warriors teammates after the 83-79 victory in the decisive seventh game of the Western Conference

Barry, who made only two of his first 15 shots, was on the bench for his third spell when the Warriors started their run which ultimately caught Chicago.

Barry scored 14 points in the final quarter for the Warriors, who trailed by as many as 14 points earlier.

'We beat them three times in games where they had big leads. That tells a lot about this team," said the Warriors' star and cap-

Barry finished with 22 points in the victory which advanced Golden State to the NBA title series against Eastern Conference champion Washington Bullets. The series will open Sunday in Landover, "Keith Wilkes kept us in the game," Barry added.

Wilkes, the NBA's Rookie-ofthe-Year, led the Warriors with 23 points.

Jean Drapeau, mayor of the sprawling city of 2.5 million bilingual French-Canadians, promised that he would present the Games "in a humble way and true Olympic spirit" and to avoid turning them into "an astronomic enterprise."

Five years later, despite his best intentions, the Garnes have become an albatross not only for the city, but for the provincial government of Quebec.

Original cost estimates have more than doubled to $653 million. Twice within six months, labor unions have held up Olympic construction as ransom for economic and political demands. And after repeatedly dispelling public doubts that the XXI Olympid would not begin as scheduled on July 17, 1976, government officials are sharing serious misgivings that IOC officials have had for some time. In Montreal Tuesday, laborers fought police protesting parlimentary legislation aimed at curbing corruption in the construction industry. Quebec Premier Robert

But six months later, the Olympic effort was stifled when 1,200 ironworkers walked off their jobs over a cost of living pay increase. And the Montreal Organizing Committee reassessed its estimates. Construction of the Olympic site rose to $580 million instead of $250 million, and operating costs went to $73 million instead of $60 million. But along with the bad news came the good. Estimates of revenue generated rose from $310 million to $450 narrowing the gap, but not closing it. And the strike ended

Olympic effort was stifled when 1,200 ironworkers walked off their jobs over a cost of living pay increase. And the Montreal Organizing Committee reassessed its estimates. Construction of the Olympic site rose to $580 million instead of $250 million, and operating costs went to $73 million instead of $60 million. But along with the bad news came the good. Estimates of revenue generated rose from $310 million to $450 narrowing the gap, but not closing it. And the strike ended Costs further rocketed when workers labored under the lights and on weekends as well as weekdays to get construction deadlines back on target.

Andre Vachen, a spokesman for the ironworkers, said after the settlement: "If it's up to us, the Olympics will be held. The ironworkers have their pride." But plumbers and electricians triggered last Thursday's walkout - the one that could spell the end of Drapeau's high hopes for an Olympics for the people - and send the IOC back to the conference table to select an alternate site.

Flyers' Battle Easy On Paper

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mere hours after they moved into the National Hockey League playoff finals, the Philadelphia Flyers took to the practice ice to prepare the defense of their Stanley Cup crown against the Buffalo Sabres

On paper, there appears little for the Flyers to fear in Thursday night's series opener. The five-year-old Buffalo club has never beaten Philadelphia here, and has not beaten the Flyers any place in the last 13 regular season and exhibition games

But that's forgotten," said Flyers left wing Bill Barber "It doesn't mean anything now

It means something to the Sabres who moved into the finals by ousting the Montreal Canadiens in a six-game semifinal after taking the Chicago Blackhawks in a five-game quarterfınal

The Flyers go right after you at the start,' said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith 'They forecheck, force mistakes and usually score early And they way they check, it's hard to catch up '

That was most evident Tuesday night when the Flyers defeated the New York Islanders 4-1 in the seventh game of their semifinal series. They got a goal from right wing Gary Dornhoefer after just 19 seconds of play and center Rick MacLeish scored three times to toll midnight for the Cinderella thirdyear club from New York

Now there is a new goal for Philadelphia stopping Gilbert Perreault the awesome center of Buffalo's high-scoring 'French Connection' line

He s the only guy we ve got to stop before he gets out of his end with the puck " said Flyers' defenseman Andre Dupont "We'e got to make sure he

The deadline day set for Joe Namath to sign with the WFL has arrived and the WFL is optimistic the free agent quarterback will ink with the new league for the $4 million contract

Bob Gibson was signed as head coach of the Charlotte Hornets of the WFL, replacing Babe Parilli.

Star defensive tackle Mike Reid has decided to retire from professional football, the Cincinnati Bengals announced.

The New England Patriots signed backup quarterback Dick

Shiner, an 11-year NFL veteran, to a multiyear contract. Five free-agents signed contracts with the St. Louis Cardinals. Safety Steve Yount, University of Missouri; guard John Hirt, Washington University in St. Louis; running back Pete Gross, Purdue; wide receiver Carl Swierc, Rice; and center Welsley Miller, Utah State all inked with St. Louis.

Randy Hughes of Oklahoma, a fourth-round draft pick of the Dallas Cowboys, signed a multi-year contract with the NFL

The Oakland Raiders announced the acquisition of tight end Jim Thaxton from the Cleveland Browns in exchange for a future draft choice.

The New York Jets signed defensive end John Ricca, who spent last season with the Florida Blazers of the WFL. Tight end Dan Nugent of Auburn, the Los Angeles Rams' third-round draft choice, signed with the NFL club. After the first request for an NFL exhibition game was turned down, Seattle Professional Football has revised and resubmitted its request for a game between Cleveland and the New York Giants at Husky Stadium.

BASKETBALL

Dave DeBusschere, vice-president and general manager of the New York Nets, is expected to be named the seventh commissioner of the American Basketball Association, DeBusschere would succeed Ted Munchak, who wants to devote full-time to his business interests.

DeBusschere received unanimous approval of the ABA's 10man Board of Trustees. He had the solid support of two of the most influential owners in the league - Roy Boe of New York and John, Y. Brown of the Kentucky Colonels.

The Buffalo Braves have criticized outgoing commissioner Walter Kennedy and have filed a breach of contract suit against former general manager Eddie Donovan. The Braves allege Kennedy allowed the New York Knicks to negotiate with Donovan before his contract had expired.

Buffalo says Kennedy "condoned a breach of the NBA Constitution" and will file league charges against the Knicks after Lawrence O'Brien assumes the commissioner's seat.

Kennedy was named chairman of the Board of the Special Olympics Programs for the Mentally Retarded.

The Montreal Expos placed right-hander Dale Murray on the 21-day disabled list and called up Dan Warthen from the Memphis Blues of the International League.

Former champion Mario Andretti returned to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and immediately switched cars as he prepared to make a qualifying run for the Indy 500 May 25. Andretti is the only former champion in the field who hasn't

Only one rookie at Indianapolis Motor Speedway still has a chance to get into the starting field. Jerry Sheva has the best chance of the rookies and he is still working on his driving test required by the Speedway for drivers.

Jim Hurtubise has silenced skeptics who said he would never get his front-engine roadster ready for the Indy 500. Hurtubise drove the red-on-white Mallard design out during practice and turned a few laps before returning to the garage.

Defending champion Ilie Nastase beat Hans Kary of Austria, 6-2, 6-2 in the second round of the $80,500 British Hardcourts tennis championships.

Flyers' Battle Easy On Paper

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -Mere hours after they moved into the National Hockey League playoff finals, the Philadelphia Flyers took to the practice ice to prepare the defense of their Stanley Cup crown against the Buffalo Sabres.

On paper, there appears little for the Flyers to fear in Thursday night's series opener. The five-year-old Buffalo club has never beaten Philadelphia here, and has not beaten the Flyers any place in the last 13 regular season and exhibition games.

"But that's forgotten," said Flyers left wing Bill Barber. "It doesn't mean anything now."

It means something to the Sabres, who moved into the finals by ousting the Montreal Canadiens in a six-game semifinal after taking the Chicago Blackhawks in a five-game quarterfinal.

"The Flyers go right after you at the start," said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith. "They forecheck, force mistakes and usually score early. And they way they check, it's hard to catch up.

That was most evident Tuesday night, when the Flyers defeated the New York Islanders 4-1 in the seventh game of their semifinal series. They got a goal from right wing Gary Dornhoefer after just 19 seconds of play and center Rick MacLeish scored three times to toll midnight for the Cinderella thirdyear club from New York.

Now there is a new goal for Philadelphia: stopping Gilbert Perreault, the awesome center of Buffalo's high-scoring "French Connection" line.

"He's the only guy we've got to stop before he gets out of his end with the puck," said Flyers' defenseman Andre Dupont. "We'e got to make sure he

Camper Usage Soars

With a reported $58 billion being spent by Americans for fun and games annually, according to the Midwest Research Institute, it won't come as a shock to anyone the summertime camper is on the increase.

According to both state and national figures, camping is continuing its annual growth to set new attendance records at nearly every camping area around.

A note from the National Park Service reports Nebraska's western park attendance up at Scotts Bluff and Agate Fossil Beds National Monuments. Early season visitation at the two national park areas showed greatest increases. Overall visitation was up over six per cent in both

It's part of the national trend which prompted National Park Service director Gary Everhardt to predict the National Park System will see a 59-year high this year.

Everhardt said a visitation mark of 218 million was reached in 1973 and 1974 but he feels the figures will reach 227 million this year. While it's nice to see all the people using the facilities, the increase is creating problems, too. Tightened finances are hurting everyone. Maintenance monies are tough to come by, as are funds for needed capital improvements.

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission indicated its 1975-76 fiscal year capital improvements budget might cover the cost of new picnic tables and that's about it.

Campgrounds Decreasing

While the projection for more outdoor park and campground usage is up, the number of campgrounds is down, according to Woodall Publishing Co.'s annual survey. In the 1975 version of "Woodall's Trailering Parks &

Campgrounds Directory," the number of campgrounds fell from 17,744 in 1973 to 17,203 in 1974 through the U.S., Canada and Mexico Campsites, however, were up from the previous year about one campsite for every four recreational vehicles on the road today. Private campsites and campgrounds decreased in the year-long period. Public campgrounds also declined but with 1,200,643 reported in 1973 and 1,226,062 listed in 1974.

Woodall's president, Curtis Fuller, says that figures out to be campsites increased nearly 1,000 from 1973-74. California heads the list of states with campsites available with nearly 75,000, followed by Florida (70,000), Michigan (48,000) and New York (47,000).

Nebraska's neighbors, Colorado, Iowa and Missouri, were also among those listed as top camping states, according to Woodall. Colorado ranks 15th with 22,683, Iowa 17th with 21,317 and Missouri is 19th with 20,518.

It is also noted Iowa is among the few national leaders having many more public campsites than private ones with 14,356 public to 6,961 private campsites listed in 1974.

While the National Park Service is anticipating a boom in park attendance this year, the state and county park systems in nearby areas are the ones likely to receive the brunt of the action.

Folks aren't likely to stay home all summer but they are looking at camping closer to home.

With a reported $58 billion being spent by Americans for fun and games annually, according to the Midwest Research Institute, it won't come as a shock to anyone the summertime camper is on the increase.

According to both state and national figures, camping is continuing its annual growth to set new attendance records at nearly every camping area around.

A note from the National Park Service reports Nebraska's western park attendance up at Scotts Bluff and Agate Fossil Beds National Monuments. Early season visitation at the two national park areas showed greatest increases. Overall visitation was up over six per cent in both

It's part of the national trend which prompted National Park Service director Gary Everhardt to predict the National Park System will see a 59-year high this year.

Everhardt said a visitation mark of 218 million was reached in 1973 and 1974 but he feels the figures will reach 227 million this year. While it's nice to see all the people using the facilities, the increase is creating problems, too.

Tightened finances are hurting everyone. Maintenance monies are tough to come by, as are funds for needed capital improvements The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission indicated its 1975-76 fiscal year capital improvements budget might cover the cost of new picnic tables and that's about it.

Campgrounds Decreasing

While the projection for more outdoor park and campground usage is up, the number of campgrounds is down, according to Woodall Publishing Co.'s annual survey.

In the 1975 version of "Woodall's Trailering Parks & Campgrounds Directory," the number of campgrounds fell from 17,744 in 1973 to 17,203 in 1974 through the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

Campsites, however, were up from the previous year with 1,200,643 reported in 1973 and 1,226,062 listed in 1974. Woodall's president, Curtis Fuller, says that figures out to be about one campsite for every four recreational vehicles on the road today.

Private campsites and campgrounds decreased in the year-long period. Public campgrounds also declined but campsites increased nearly 1,000 from 1973-74.

California heads the list of states with campsites available with nearly 75,000, followed by Florida (70,000), Michigan (48,000) and New York (47,000).

Nebraska's neighbors, Colorado, Iowa and Missouri, were also among those listed as top camping states, according to Woodall. Colorado ranks 15th with 22,683, Iowa 17th with 21,317 and Missouri is 19th with 20,518.

It is also noted Iowa is among the few national leaders having many more public campsites than private ones with 14,356 public to 6,961 private campsites listed in 1974.

While the National Park Service is anticipating a boom in park attendance this year, the state and county park systems in nearby areas are the ones likely to receive the brunt of the action.

Folks aren't likely to stay home all summer but they are looking at camping closer to home.

Dove Hunting Bill Advances

By Associated Press

After adding an amendment to a bill to prohibit bird hunting along roadways, the Legislature Wednesday voted 26-12 preliminary approval to a bill which would legalize mourning

HALLIBURTON IS LOOKING FOR THE UNCOMMON INDIVIDUAL-COULD IT BE YOU?

Halliburton Services is looking for ambitious individuals with these qualifications: 21 or over, in good health, high school education or the equivalent, some mechanical aptitude and the desire to get ahead in life.

We are the world's largest oil field service organization and recently the demand for our services has come close to exceeding the supply.

So we've set up a training program lasting about eight months to train capable people to work as oil well cementers, one of the basic oil field services required by oil and gas producers. When you complete this training you are assigned to Halliburton locations either in the U.S. or foreign countries. During the classroom training you receive excellent pay as well as all lodging, meals and transportation. After completing training and starting as a cementer, you'll get a salary increase and moving costs to your new location. If you go abroad you'll also get living and family housing allowances and a differential pay increase. There are important tax advantages, too.

Our work is truly unusual. Every assignment is different. A cementer works outside with big, highpowered equipment. The responsibility is yours.

If you're interested, Halliburton Services representatives are interviewing from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, May 17 and 18 at the Ramada Inn, 2301 Northwest 12th, Lincoln, telephone (402) 475-5911.

Appointments are not necessary and your family is welcome. Contact Bill Fuller or Bill Tillman in the PDR (Private Dining Room). We can arrange interviews at other hours, too. Or write us at Duncan.

NCAA Invite

Ames, Iowa (AP) - Iowa State's baseball team, despite losing two of three games at Colorado last weekend, still may get an invitation to NCAA postseason tournament play, school officials say.

The Cyclones finished second to Oklahoma with an 11-9 Big Eight Conference mark, and could draw an at-large bid early next week, a spokesman said Wednesday.

ISU had a 22-18 season prior to scheduled Wednesday night doubleheader against Wartburg.

ISU May Get NCAA Invite

Ames, Iowa (AP) - Iowa State's baseball team, despite losing two of three games at Colorado last weekend, still may get an invitation to NCAA postseason tournament play, school officials say.

The Cyclones finished second to Oklahoma with an 11-9 Big Eight Conference mark, and could draw an at-large bid early next week, a spokesman ISU had a 22-18 season prior to a scheduled Wednesday night doubleheader against Wartburg.

1938. The dream race pits Seabiscuit, old and often lame, against War Admiral, son of Man O'War, triple crown winner and 1937's Horse of the Year. In the homestretch, above, "The Biscuit" simply runs away with it.

Four Repeat Girls' Returning State Finishers As All-Stars

Kearney, Neb. (UPI) - Four Nebraska college baseball standouts have made the NAIA District 11 all-star diamond squad for the second consecutive Wayne State dominated the 15member team with five players, Kearney had four, Peru and Concordia two each and Chadron and Dana one each.

Repeaters on the squad were Dave Pratt, a Kearney State leftfielder and one of two sophomores on the squad, junior Ken Vergith, a Kearney pitcher, and seniors Dave Rombeck, a Peru State third baseman and Bill Gradoville, a Kearney catcher.

Other members were pitchers Mark Weber, Concordia, Bob DeVaul, Wayne, and Vergith, Kearney, first basemen Mike Urdahl, Dana, and Randy Miller, Wayne, second baseman Bruce Parrish, Chadron, and third baseman Rombeck of Peru. Don Hasenkamp of Wayne was selected shortstop and Jerry Frerichs of Wayne was the designated hitter.

Outfielders were Jon Seevers. Concordia, Pratt, Kearney, Bud Kimball, Peru, Tim Denham, Wayne and Alan Sheffield, Kearney.

The team was selected by the various college coaches.

Falstaff Blanks Racquet Lounge

Tom Novak banged out a triple and a home run as Falstaff blanked Racquet Lounge, 3-0, in the first game in Lincoln AAA softball at Ballard Field Wednesday.

Novak tripled to knock in the first run in the third inning and followed with a home run in the sixth. Jay Phipps picked up his second win against no losses for Falstaff. Ernie Young took the loss for the Racquet Lounge. In the second game, Pizza Hut edged Valentino's, 5-4, despite 12 hits by the Valentino's team. Dwight Clum was the winning pitcher, while Dick Ude took the Falstaff 3, Racquet Lounge 0

Dr Clyde Cunningham of Columbia, Mo, a former faculty member at the University of Missouri, made the comment Wednesday during U.S. District Court hearings here on a suit seeking to permanently enjoin the U.S. Department of Agriculture USDA from implementing its new beef grading standards

Cunningham, who has also served as a meat management consultant for several large grocery chains and cooperatives in Missouri, said the new standards, which will lower the fat marbling needed for the "choice" grading, thereby allowing cattle now graded "good" into the higher category, will lower quality, and possibly force the consumer to other nutritional alternatives, such as fish or poultry

Cunningham said consumers don't buy beef because it's nutritional, but because they like it If quality drops, other alternatives will be sought, he reasoned

Nebraska Business Takes Slight Upturn

Business in Nebraska took a slight turn for the better in January while the national economy continued on a downward This analysis is found in "Business in Nebraska." the monthly newsletter of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln The volume of Nebraska business in January 1975, after adjustment for price changes, was about 15% higher than in December 1974 The U S volume was approximately 0.3% lower in January than in December Compared with January 1974, Nebraska is doing better than the nation in every sector except agriculture, where the dollar volume has been depressed partly by this January's lower level of

Holdrege chalked up an impressive hike of nearly 50% in its city business index from January 1974, to January 1975, to run far ahead of all other Nebraska cities

A rise of over 80% in sales, a 21 8% hike in banking activity, and a 64 7% rise in building activity contributed to Holdrege's amazing situation

Last year was a great one for growth in Holdrege, said Ronald Maday, manager of the Holdrege Chamber of Commerce At least 20 Holdrege businesses changed hands during 1974 and a number of those expanded, Maday commented. Statewide retail sales data reported by the Nebraska Department of Revenue are off nearly 6% from the figure for January 1974, after adjustment for price changes Despite the widespread decline in sales, several cities actually posted increases over the previous January These cities were Holdrege, York, Grand

Island, Lexington, North Platte, Nebraska City, and Hastings Banking activity was down almost 10% in the 25 cities included in the city business index, but McCook and Holdrege both showed substantial gains over January 1974. The bureau's index of construction activity for the 25 major cities was up nearly 25% from January 1974, but this index is not adjusted for changes in construction costs Power consumption appears to be up slightly

Dr. Clyde Cunningham of Columbia, Mo., a former faculty member at the University of Missouri, made the comment Wednesday during U.S. District Court hearings here on a suit seeking to permanently enjoin the U.S. Department of Agriculture USDA from implementing its new beef grading standards

Cunningham, who has also served as a meat management consultant for several large grocery chains and cooperatives in Missouri, said the new standards, which will lower the fat marbling needed for the "choice" grading, thereby allowing cattle now graded 'good" into the higher category, will lower quality, and possibly force the consumer to other nutritional alternatives, such as fish or poultry

Cunningham said consumers don't buy beef because it's nutritional, but because they like it. If quality drops, other alternatives will be sought, he reasoned.

In addition, Cunningham said, specialty restaurants, such as steak houses, will be forced to maintain quality by purchasing higher quality meat at higher

The suit was filed by the Independent Meat Packers Association of Omaha, which claims the new standards will increase transportation and grading costs.

To prove their point, attorneys for the plaintiffs have called the chief operating officers of three Omaha meat packing houses to the stand — all of them saying their grading costs will be increased because of the extra time that will be needed in going through the new grading procedures. However, the government has pointed out that grading costs per dressed pound of beef total much less than one

Ten other groups, seven of them consumer-related, have joined the plaintiffs as intervenors, most of them claiming the new guidelines will mean higher prices for lower quality meat. The government claims the new standards will not raise prices because less time and the "choice" grade. The USDA also says the lowering of the marbling requirements will not significantly affect the taste or quality of beef at the retail level. Cunningham said he does not think the new standards will lower prices. But under cross examination, he said the broadening of the "choice" grade and consumer reluctance to buy lesser quality meat could lead to an oversupply and lower Earlier in the day, Raymond Matson, an Omaha restaurateur, was called to testify as a representative of the National Restaurant Association.

Matson said meat grading changes in 1965, those that brought the advent of yield grading (how much edible meat a carcass will yield), made it extremely difficult for restaurants to purchase the high quality of meat their customers demanded. The same would be true if the new standards are allowed to go into effect, he said.

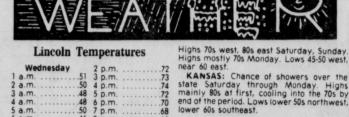

The plaintiff case is expected to be wrapped up Friday after-

This analysis is found in "Business in Nebraska," the monthly newsletter of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The volume of Nebraska business in January 1975, after adjustment for price changes, was about 1.5% higher than in December 1974. The U.S. volume was approximately 0.3% lower in January than in December.

Compared with January 1974, Nebraska is doing better than the nation in every sector except agriculture, where the dollar volume has been depressed partly by this January's lower level of Holdrege chalked up an impressive hike of nearly 50% in its city business index from January 1974, to January 1975, to run far ahead of all other Nebraska cities.

A rise of over 80% in sales, a 21.8% hike in banking activity, and a 64.7% rise in building activity contributed to Holdrege's amazing situation. Last year was a great one for growth in Holdrege, said Ronald Maday, manager of the Holdrege Chamber of Commerce. At least 20 Holdrege businesses changed hands during 1974 and a number of those expanded, Maday commented. Statewide retail sales data reported by the Nebraska Department of Revenue are off nearly 6% from the figure for January 1974, after adjustment for price changes. Despite the widespread decline in sales, several cities actually posted increases over the previous January. These cities were Holdrege, York, Grand Island, Lexington, North Platte, Nebraska City, and Hastings. Banking activity was down almost 10% in the 25 cities included in the city business index, but McCook and Holdrege both showed substantial gains over January 1974. The bureau's index of construction activity for the 25 major cities was up nearly 25% from January 1974, but this index is not adjusted for changes in construction costs. Power consumption appears to be up slightly from January 1974.

Net taxable retail sales of Nebraska planning and development regions and cities (deflated for price changes) are:

Hastings Workers Gef Pay Hike

Hastings (UPI) - The Hastings Board of Public Works has approved a new pay schedule for city utility workers. Norman Blaunt, city public works board chairman, said the average pay increase of 8.89% will bring salaries in line with utility employes in other areas. Blaunt said the employes received a 6% raise in January, but that was a regular merit pay hike. The latest raise was in line with a new set of job classifications approved several weeks ago.

Lexington Library Receives Grant

Lexington — The Nebraska Committee for the Humanities has announced a grant of $983 to the Lexington Public Library. The matching grant is for a project titled "Urbane Urbanization: Living With a Changing Rural Community." Project director David B. Three On PLS Staff Resign Scottsbluff (AP) - Panhandle Legal Services staff attorneys and an administrative secretary have announced their resignations. The action followed a PLS Board of Directors decision to retain PLS director Donald Sanders, who had faced several grievances from the three employes. Attorneys Bryan Silverman and James Zimmerman will continue their duties until June 12. Administrative secretary Jennie Grondof will terminate her duties May 27. The grievances were discussed in executive sessions, but were not made public.

Public Hearing Up To Residents

The Nebraska Department of Roads and the Nebraska Highway Commission are offering an opportunity for a public hearing on the proposed improvement of a five-mile segment of Highway 15 between David City and the junction of Highways 15 and 64, north of David City. If a hearing is desired, a written request must be made to the Nebraska Department of Roads, c/o John Rosecrans, P.O. Box 94759, Lincoln, 68509, on or before June 6. If no request for a hearing is received, the department will complete its study and present its recommendations to the Highway Commission for approval.

State Highway Commissioner Dave Breslow of conflict of interest charges stemming from his ownership of land next to Lincoln's proposed West Bypass. A memo prepared by a U.S. Department of Transportation investigator said it is "readily apparent" that Breslow's part ownership of 178 acres and futile attempts to get it zoned to a higher use "do not constitute a conflict of interest," Breslow is from Lincoln

In an accompanying letter sent to Breslow and State Engineer Thomas Doyle, Ray Hogrefe, Nebraska division engineer for the federal government, said he

Three Men Arrested

Three men, aged 19, 20 and 22, have been arrested in connection with a burglary at Scott's Pancake Shoppe, 1275 S. Cotner, police said Wednesday. The burglary, in which burglars pried open the back of a cabinet to get $884 in cash, was reported Monand relieved" to learn that Breslow had been vincidated. Hogrefe said he has high respect for Breslow.

Breslow said in an interview, "My only comment is that by the accusations (of conflict of interest) I have been convicted in many people's minds. "This shows how a person can work hard for something for years as a highway commissioner and then have somebody make accusations like

"I'm looking to the papers for exoneration," Breslow said.

Questions concerning Breslow and Ed Schwartzkopf's ownership of land at the old Lilly Asparagus Farm and an adjacent parcel off Coddington Ave. were raised in newspaper stories.

Doyle was unavailable for comment.

The controversy arose from the fact the land lies along the tentative route of the proposed West Bypass and in an area

School Bond Issues Fail

By United Press International Voters in two northeast Nebraska communities turned down proposed school bond issues in elections Tuesday.

At Laurel, the vote was 420 against and 288 for on a $975,000 bond proposal for construction of a new elementary school and other facilities.

Wakefield residents voted 319 against and 303 for a proposed $275,000 addition to the juniorsenior high school. It was the second time the issue had been unsuccessful at the polls.
